people, places and events. Help us put names to faces. The photos were all taken by Brattleboro Reformer photographers and donated to the Townshend Historical Society for our collection.

CONTEST ANSWER:

The tree pictured above, was in front of the Shady Elm Inn 1851 (Townshend Country Inn) in Harmonyville. Thank you all for entering the contest to place this tree.

TOWNSHEND'S GREAT TREES

On June 16, 2009, Bill Gunther, Windham County Forester, gave a presentation about Vermont's largest trees. After the presentation, Bill and the attendees went to measure the sycamore in Harmonyville. Our sycamore tree in Harmonyville is still the largest sycamore in Vermont! This tree grew nine feet and increased its diameter since the last time it was measured.
